City Officials and Columbia Empowerment Zone Announce Restaurant Opening in North Columbia

A press conference was held today at the North Main Plaza (3800 North Main Street). During the press conference Chef Frank Houston and Chef Millie Houston, along with Columbia City Council members, Columbia Empowerment Zone, Inc. Board members, and community leaders announced the opening of a new restaurant, Houston's Low Country Grill.

Since 1994 the Houston's have been providing food services to the Midlands. The couple has established a loyal customer base with their exquisite catering service which includes outstanding southern menu items. Houston's Low Country Grill will officially open for business on Monday, September 13, 2010. The hours of operation will be 11am to 4pm. The restaurant is located at North Main Plaza (3800 North Main Street).

The North Columbia area is thrilled to welcome Houston's Low Country Grill as they bring a new fine dining experience to the community. This is a significant economic development as the City of Columbia encourages growth and enhancement along the North Main corridor. Details regarding the official opening date and a special grand opening ceremony will be provided at the press conference.
